

	Geography 328v - Geography of Latin America Meets M/W, 10:30 am to 11:45 am Synchronously on Zoom Spring 2020
--	---

Class focuses on contemporary issues of importance
Offered by Dr. Christopher Brown, Geography Department

Satisfies a Geography major requirement
Satisfies Viewing a Wider World requirement

Course learning objectives:

- ✚ Examine sequence of empire, settlement, & development that yields modern regions,
- ✚ Explore development as a geographic concept in various sub-regions,
- ✚ Delve into issues of current importance to the Americas,
- ✚ Investigate the impact of globalization on the Americas and related economic issues, &
- ✚ Get to know specific sub-regions of the larger Latin American region.

Format and class activities:

- ✚ Class is offered in a mixture of class lecture and seminar type discussion.
- ✚ Class employs Team Based Learning – more fun & informative! Ask former students!
- ✚ Class has specific focus on contemporary problems of importance to the region.
- ✚ “Hot Topic Papers” examine current issues in specific region of interest.

Contact Dr. Christopher Brown, (646-1892 - brownchr@nmsu.edu) for details or simply register for this interesting class!!!